

Learnt

Learnt is an app which indexes books from libraries and little libraries near you and allows you to search book titles for free.

Learnt is trying to share knowledge and connect people with the resources they need for free. Our app allows students and researchers the ability to find local and free resources that are otherwise overlooked in today's age of information gluttony. Our vast index of books of thousands of titles that are all available for free at local libraries and "little libraries" across the country. Our platform also serves as a "social media" of books, where users can register new books into the index and leave a review of the title they read for others. In this way, we decentralize the indexing of our books and create a network of individuals passionate about sharing knowledge.

Rebecca – New Mother

Rebecca has been a mother for five years now, and she has been struggling financially along the way, but wants to provide the best for her child, Travis. Travis' favorite part of the day is when his mom reads him a new bedtime story, and thanks to Learnt Travis' mom now has an endless selection to read to her son.

Thomas – Grad Student

Thomas is a grad student working on his final paper for the semester. To finish, he needs a specific scholarly text to reference, and thanks to Learnt, he can go pick it up today from the local library for free.

Bill – Retired

Bill has a lot of time on his hands since his wife passed, he enjoys reading to now pass the time. But because Bill is on Medicaid, he doesn't have much money for books or magazines. But thanks to Learnt, he can enjoy reading free of charge.

Competitors

